DANCE AT FAIRBANK.

The Young People of Fairbank and Surrounding Country Indulge in a Social Dance.

Last evening Roger's warehouse, at Fairbank, was the scene of dancing beauty, consisting of handsome women and brave men. The dance was gotten up by the young people of Fairbank, who had extended invitations to their friends in Charleston, Contention and Tombstone, and was attended by many who availed themselves of this invitation.

Among those present a reporter of THE TOMSTONE noticed the following ladies and gentlemen:

Fairbank—P. Demartini and wife, William Gordon and Miss Burnett, William Lyons and wife, H. B. Addington and wife, A. Wentworth and Mrs. P. Martin, Mrs. Barton and daughter, and Harry Goldwater.

Contention—Harry Lewis, L. Larsen and daughters.

Benson—W. E. Walsh.

Good music was furnished to which the dancers tripped off, waltzes, polkas, mazourkas, quadrilles, etc., until the light in the west warned all that the commencement of another day had begun, and that the night of mirth and glee had come to an end when all left for their homes, firm in their convictions that the people of Fairbank knew just how to get up a pleasant social dance.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.

Mr. Editor:—After a short vacation of one week, spent with friends in Buffalo, Mrs. Cleveland returned on Wednesday morning, to Washington. She was accompanied by her friend Mrs. Cadman, of Buffalo, who will be her guest for a few weeks. The President was at the depot to welcome his wife upon her arrival, and the party was driven direct to the White House. Owing to the extremely early hour of the arrival of the train but few curious people had gathered at the depot, and the party was spared the annoyance that would have otherwise been occasioned.

The wonderful success achieved by Dr. E. M. Gallaudet in educating the deaf, dumb and blind, during the several years that he has been in charge of the National Deaf Mute College at Kendall Green in this city, has given him a reputation second to none in the world, as a deaf-mute educator. The college at Kendall Green is the only collegiate institution in existence for the deaf. It is well known in England that in no country has the education of the deaf and blind received such careful attention as in the United States, and on Saturday last Dr. Gallaudet sailed for England upon an invitation of the British Government, sent through the British Minister, to appear before a royal commission on the education of the deaf and blind. The President who is ex-officio patron of the Deaf Mute College, at once gave his approval to Dr. Gallaudet accepting the invitation, and he expressed great interest in the matter.

Now that the time of the elections in the various states is close at hand the question that most perplexes the minds of the clerks in the Government Department is as to how to cast their votes without giving offense. The Republican clerks are especially agitated, as while their friends are urging the necessity of their going home to vote, they fear that by so doing they would be likely to lose their places. Many of the clerks who have not taken their vacations are now applying for their leave, and to conceal the fact that they have gone to their homes, clerks have in many instances exchanged railroad tickets with clerks from other states, and have shown these tickets as evidence of their going simply upon a vacation, after which the tickets are returned to their rightful owners.

A great deal of fault is found by the Washington banks on account of the recent order directing that the new silver certificates should be distributed from the sub-treasury in New York City. They complain that it is an extraordinary business regulation which requires them to ship silver to New York, and pay charges upon return packages, when it would have been much more convenient for them to have deposited the silver at the Treasury in Washington. There are over twenty-eight hundred national banks in the country, and as each of the banks will be supplied with $1,000 of the new one dollar certificates, before outside orders will receive attention, it will necessarily be sometime before the bills will enter into general circulation.

The Acting Secretary of the Treasury has called upon the Attorney General for an opinion as to whether the oleomargarine law imposes a tax on the different ingredients used in the manufacture of oleomargarine, and also a tax on the article when finished, or whether the law contemplates a tax upon the finished article only. The decision of this question will make a great difference one way or the other to persons dealing in oleomargarine. The new stamps are about ready for shipment to the collectors. The wholesale and retail stamps contain a vignette of the Treasury Building, the tax-paid stamp a vignette of a farmer and a mechanic standing near a U. S. shield, and the export stamp a vignette of a large steamship with a view of the Brooklyn bridge and the Bartholdi Statue of Liberty.

Good colors, good goods, good value all for good money. "Palace," Fifth street. 9-27tf

Boston, Oct. 16.—A special to the Herald from Digby, N. It is supposed her boiler burst. There were 100 passengers on board. She was bound for Boston from Digby.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 16.—A special to the Picayune says: The relief boat Lamar has returned to Beaumont from Sabine Pass. Only two houses are left in the latter place; one hundred and one persons are missing. The waves broke against the lighthouse in solid walls fifty feet high, tearing out the windows at the very top structure. Corpses have been picked up at a distance of thirty miles from the scene of the disaster.

Friends and relatives of the drowned residents are coming into Orange and Beaumont by every train. The steamboat Lamar took on board a cargo of food, blankets and clothing, and also a fresh relief committee, and at daylight this morning started down to succor the unfortunate. The pecuniary damage at Sabine, including that to the government works, will aggregate nearly $6,000,000, as many plantations sustained serious injury. It makes no difference what is sent—whether food, clothing, medicine or money—they need them all. Dr. Calloun is Mayor of Beaumont, and he will distribute through the committee whatever is sent to him. From all accounts gathered, language could not exaggerate the state of affairs at Sabine Pass. Wives and children were swept away and drowned in the presence of their husbands and fathers who were powerless to save them.

Local Items.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—The rate cutting on overland fares which has been practiced in a quiet way heretofore is now done openly. The schedule rate to New York is $81 but it is stated that tickets are being sold as low as $67. Another rate war similar to that five months ago is believed to be imminent. This state of affairs is due to the failure of the attempts of the local passenger agents to form an association for material protection against rate cutting.

John Rolfe and Pocahontas.

There are few more famous facts in Virginia history than those relating to John Rolfe and Pocahontas, but, though their history in the colony is well known, the constant inquiry as to the history of John Rolfe, previous to his arrival in Virginia, has hitherto been in vain. A recent English work, "Sandringham, Past and Present," now in the library of the Capitol, supplies this want. The authoress, Mrs. J. Herbert Jones, states that the Rolfe were a very ancient and respectable family, long seated at Heacham, in the county of Norfolk. According to this authority, John Rolfe, the husband of Pocahontas, was a grandson of Eustace Rolfe, who died in 1593, and whose tomb remains in Heacham Church. She refers to a manuscript history of the Rolfe family, and mentions Henry Rolfe, the brother of John, who took care of and educated Thomas Rolfe, the ancestor of the Virginia descendants of Pocahontas. In the same work is also a very interesting account of the original oil portrait of Pocahontas, which is now preserved in the County of Norfolk, England, along with Pocahontas' earrings and a vase, known as "Pocahontas' Vase." — Richmond Whig.
